

Councils reveal plan to become one authority

LEADERS of St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Forest Heath District Council have revealed plans to form one new giant council before the local elections in 2019.

St Edmundsbury leader Cllr John Griffiths said on Tuesday it was "a logical step forward" for the two councils which already share services under the banner of West Suffolk.

Cllr James Waters, Forest Heath leader, said this was not a merger but the creation of a whole new council.

He said: "We see the opportunities within West Suffolk, we know that we have to support our communities, this is not a merger, this is all about creating a new body that makes us that little bit bigger and stronger to deliver."

"I think we've already merged the staff and many people already see us as one council and this is just bringing that all together and giving more support to the community. It's that grass roots level stuff that I think we're pretty good at."

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach\_mc94CN

Cllr Griffiths said in light of dramatic funding cuts from government, the new council would be financially resilient and would create "the best possible jobs, environment, housing, businesses and investment."

The plans would be voted on by each full council before this September. The boundary commission would review next spring how wards would be divided and how many councillors would form the new council for the 2019 local elections.

The boundary commission would be reviewing both councils' wards regardless of whether the single council goes ahead.

Both leaders remained optimistic that a new, single council would not be a point of tension and would unite councillors and constituents.

Cllr Waters said: "We don't see it so much as an 'us and them'."

"There's a mutual trust there, a mutual respect there. I think, like you look at any joining together, any business deal as such, it has to be done for the right reasons."

Both leaders promised that the plans and process to become a single council would not negatively impact on current projects being run by the separate councils.

Mr Griffiths said: "It's very much business as usual, our officers and staff are moving forward with all these projects. This will, if anything, streamline those things, if the decision is to go ahead on this basis."

FUNDRAISING: David Jaggs is walking 100km from London to Brighton in memory of Julie Morse

Walk in memory of friend

A MAN is taking on the huge challenge of walking 100km in around 27 hours in memory of friend Julie Morse, a Castle Manor teacher.

David Jaggs, from Haverhill, will walk from London to Brighton to raise money for Cancer Research UK after Julie died from cancer in August 2016 and his mum survived the disease.

The 48-year-old said: "The reason is my mum survived cancer a few years back and I released I'm one of the lucky ones so many more people are not so lucky. I registered for the walk last year then found out a friend and a very popular person Julie Morse, a school teacher at Castle Manor, had died. So I decided to walk for Julie and dedicate it to her."

GP surgery to be taken over

HAVERHILL Christmas Maltings and Clements surgery is being taken over following challenges to attract new doctors.

The management of the practice will switch to the Suffolk GP Federation in June.

Dr Fiona Andrews, senior partner at Christmas Maltings and Clements Practice, said: "In common with other GP surgeries across the country, we have been looking at how we can make positive changes to ensure all patients continue to receive the very best care, both now and in the future.

"Difficulties replacing GPs, a rapid rise in the needs of a growing population and financial constraints at a national level have created a very challenging situation.

"The support of Suffolk GP Federation is a great opportunity to make improvements and ensure the practice is on a strong footing for the future."

A practice board will be established with representatives from staff and patients to make decisions about the surgery in the future, the first time such a board will exist in Suffolk.

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach\_mc94CN

The decision for the takeover was made with support from NHS England and NHS West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group.

Patients at the Camps Road surgery have been issued a newsletter detailing the changes.

Dr Paul Driscoll, medical director and chairman of Suffolk GP Federation, said: "The focus is very much on ensuring that Christmas Maltings and Clements remains a sustainable, local practice for the people of Haverhill and surrounding areas.

"The current problems can be overcome. Other surgeries have done so and we have excellent, modern premises and caring, committed clinicians.

"However, it does mean that the way Christmas Maltings and Clements operates will have to change. For example, we will be introducing more staff, such as nurses, paramedics and pharmacists, who will speak to or see patients where appropriate."

Other changes will include changing access to appointments with patients having to book in advance rather than relying on a 'first come, first served' basis as they do now.

Suffolk GP Federation hopes that the changes at the practice will help with recruiting more staff in the future.

Dr Driscoll said: "We also hope to make Christmas Maltings and Clements a more attractive place to work, helping with future recruitment and offering more support to members of staff."

The surgery is hoping to hold a consultation and information night with patients in the near future.

Bat-wielding robbers steal victim's cash

TWO masked men used a cricket bat to intimidate their victim during a robbery.

One of the men threatened their male 54-year-old victim at the recreation ground at Camps Road in Haverhill on Monday before demanding cash.

Police said the victim had been walking across the recreation ground when he was approached by the robbers.

He dropped the money on the ground and the men grabbed it before running off at 11.15pm.

The suspects are described as being aged in their late teens to early 20s, both around 5ft 8in tall and of slim build.

They were both wearing dark-coloured clothing and were wearing balaclavas.

Gran to abseil – blindfolded

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

A GREAT GRANNY who doesn't like heights is gearing up for some over-the-top fundraising by abseiling down the ArcelorMittal in London – blindfolded.

And it is all by accident. Rose Felloni, 71, thought she was agreeing to go down the helter skelter at the London Olympic Park and it wasn't until she got an email, she realised she would abseiling.

Rose said: "I thought I was doing the helter skelter thing, I thought 'oh I could do that' but then when they emailed they said thank you for the abseil."

"I'm a bit claustrophobic and don't like heights," Rose said. "I didn't read the form. I know they were doing it [helter skelter]. I think that was last year, I was a year too late."

She added: "I've got a blindfold. I can't look down. It's going to be a challenge. I ask myself 'why do I do it?'

DOESN'T LIKE HEIGHTS: Great granny Rose Felloni

probably because I'm demotivated."

Rose is raising cash for the Prader-Willi Syndrome Association after her daughter, Deena, died in 2005.

The condition is a genetic condition which prevents the brain from registering when a person is full and leads to a feeling of perpetual hunger. This month marks 12 years since Deena died at just 35, weighing 38 stone.

Rose has already raised £49,000 in the last 12 years and she is hoping the abseil will push her over the £50,000 mark.

Her main aim is to raise awareness of Prader-Willi Syndrome and to fundraise for research into the rare condition affecting no more than one in 15,000 children.

She said: "I get lots of support from people and get messages but it's not about that. I want to raise awareness, getting money for research."

Asked whether there was anything she was looking forward to about the day, Rose said "just the money I will raise".

POLITICS

Candidates for election revealed

PARLIAMENTARY candidates for the five largest parties have been announced for West Suffolk ahead of the general election next month.

The race is nearly an exact replica of that in 2015.

The Conservatives will once again put forward former MP Matt Hancock in the race for the Westminster seat.

Newmarket Town Councillor Michael Jeffreys will stand for the Labour Party.

He has been the party's candidate in the four previous general election races.

Elfreda Tealby-Watson will once again represent the Liberal Democrats in the election after standing in 2015.

For UKIP, Julian Flood, who lost his place on Suffolk County Council last week, will face off against the opposing parties.

Mr Flood also represented the party in the last parliamentary elections.

New to the West Suffolk competition is the Green candidate, Donald Allwright from Haverhill.

Blue tide sweeps through area with Tory victories

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

CONSERVATIVES dominated the Haverhill elections, taking all three available seats on Suffolk County Council.

Paula Fox and Quillon Fox took the two available seats in the Haverhill Cangle division and David Roach won the seat for the Haverhill East and Kedington division.

Mary Evans, the incumbent Conservative candidate took the seat in Clare.

David Roach, who is the current Haverhill mayor will now serve Haverhill on the town, borough and county councils. Mr Roach said he felt "really privileged and honoured to have won and proud of people who have put their faith in us".

He also praised the previous UKIP county councillors John Burns, Julian Flood and Tony Brown for their work. Mr Burns and Mr Brown did not stand for election.

Mr Roach added that he hopes Haverhill's three Conservative councillors will be able to push the needs of the town more as part of the controlling party on the council.

He said being part of the controlling party "has got to help" and added "I'm hoping we will be a strong voice, have some influence."

Mr Roach won the seat

TRUE BLUE: Paula Fox and Quillon Fox both had election victories with 922 votes against Labour's Jason Simpkin (464) and UKIP's Ant Williams (366) and Lib Dem Oliver Forder (172).

Paula Fox who received 1,481 votes in the Haverhill Cangle Ward will also now sit on the town, borough and county councils.

Quillon Fox, who is also a Haverhill town councillor, will join his wife on Suffolk County Council after receiving 1,324 votes. Labour's Maureen Byrne and David Smith received 1,134 and 845 votes respectively, UKIP candidate Julian Flood got 773 with Lib Dem candidates Lewis Curtis getting 455 and Ken Rolph, 376.

Mrs Fox said one of her main aims as a county councillor would be to ensure proper mental health provision is available in Haverhill.

Mr Fox said he was shocked to win but now wants to improve transport into Haverhill, especially through the possibility of re-opening a Haverhill railway.

He said: "There's definitely a lot of hard work that starts now."

"I'd like to try and make sure we get the railway into Cambridge sorted."

The Conservative Party won 50 seats overall for Suffolk, Labour got nine and the Lib Dems got five. UKIP went from nine seats to zero.

CAMPAIGN

'To make a change we have to vote together'

Jasmine Watkiss, 23, is a trainee reporter at our sister paper, the Cambridge News

IT'S going to be up to the next generation to make a difference.

I don't know about you, but the state of UK politics over the last year has really got me down.

From Brexit to the continued destruction of the NHS, things have gone from bad to worse – and the electorate is so jaded it's currently a bright, emerald green.

But when Theresa May called a snap general election last month, I was filled with a kind of agonising adrenaline rush of hope – hope that more young adults than ever will help set the country back on the right track.

But I also know this will only happen if we shake off the blues, despair, cynicism, and vote on June 8.

I am 23, and I've left university with a huge student debt that I will almost definitely never pay off.

I have a full-time job, but I have no savings and struggle to pay my high Cambridgeshire rent.

Buying a house is a goal so far out of my reach I need the Hubble Space Telescope to see it.

The worst thing is I know hundreds of thousands of others are in far, far more woeful situations than I am – because of decisions made by a percentage of the electorate who are not enduring their struggles.

The snap general election on June 8 is a golden opportunity to make a difference – it will be a decision that will affect you and your life directly.

It will affect the choices you are able to make, from whether you could ever afford to buy a house, or if you might want to have kids in later life.

I hope our votes will combat the division sown by Brexit and steer us back towards a progressive, forward-thinking and caring government, which looks after the UK people.

I hope our votes will bring about the reconstruction of the NHS and the welfare state, which is entirely necessary if we are to look after people who are unable, for any variety of reasons, to support themselves.

I hope our votes will mean education is not a luxury reserved only for those who can afford it, and that there are more apprenticeships than ever to train people for work.

We are joining with Trinity Mirror newspaper titles across the South East to inspire young adults and first-time voters to head to the polls on June 8 and make a difference to their lives, the lives of others – and the whole country.

Don't let other voters make decisions about the life you lead – you too have the power to shape the UK.

#Myvote matters, and yours does too. Get involved on Twitter and Facebook with the hashtag #myvote, and spread the word.

To make a change, we have to vote together.

Young people are future of country

IN a month's time the country will vote in the most important general election for a generation.

Prime Minister Theresa May called the snap election saying she wanted a mandate to deliver the Brexit negotiations to take us out of the European Union.

This vote is all about the future – what type of country we want to live in and what type of relationship we want with the EU and the rest of the world.

This vote is also about the young people of our country – they are our future.

Which is why the Haverhill News this week launches #myvote – a campaign encouraging young people to register to vote and cast their ballot on June 8.

We will be joining up with our sister titles across the South East – in Hertfordshire, Essex, Kent and Surrey as part of a concerted effort to get out the youth vote.

There is a growing inequality between the young and old in our country.

Suffolk knows just as well as any other county the challenges young people face in paying massive rents and the unattainable goal of many to ever get on the housing ladder.

We have a world class university on our doorstep, yet the costs of getting a top education have never been higher.

There is no denying there was a palpable sense among many young people that older voters had robbed them of their future in the Brexit vote.

Social media was full of young people angry and desolate about the outcome. And while figures differ, it is clear that not as many young people turned out as older voters.

Research after the referendum found that about 64 per cent of registered voters aged 18-24 went to the polls but 90 per cent of over-65s voted.

In this internet age where popularity is measured in likes and shares politicians can seem out of touch and politics can appear disconnected from every day life.

In the coming weeks we will be running a series of articles and events aimed at encouraging young people to vote.

The Haverhill News' readership – online and in print – is made up of a broad cross section of ages; please join us in our campaign.

It is too easy to dismiss young people who didn't vote as lazy.

We all have a job to persuade young people why the future is in their hands and they should grasp it.

Pupils pick up top award at theatre festival debut

PUPILS at Samuel Ward Academy in Haverhill marked their Cambridge Theatre Festival debut by being named the best junior group.

Matthew Russell, head of performing arts, said: "It was a great opportunity for the students to perform in a professional theatre and to get adjudicated and feedback from a professional actor, both personally and as a group."

The young group performed

Graham – World's Fastest Blind Runner, which they last took to the stage five months ago, and Mr Russell described the performance as "one of their best".

The group was also nominated for best sound, best actor for both Oli Kemp and Jack Ainsworth-MacKay, best actress for Ella Ketteridge and best cameo for Grace Clancy, George Farrington and Luke Potter.

CRIME

Arsonists strike three times in six days

THREE arson attacks were reported to police in less than a week in Haverhill.

Two cars were written off as a result of arson at Fritton Walk on the Clements Estate.

A Renault Espace was set alight on Sunday, May 7, around 4am. The blaze was so intense it spread to a nearby Peugeot which was also destroyed.

The fire also damaged garages which the cars were parked next to.

Arsonists also set fire to a large industrial bin just off High Street between 6am and 8am on Tuesday, May 2.

A fence was also destroyed by a fire started on wasteland behind the victim's house at Old Rope Walk.

The fire was started in a wheelie bin on Wednesday, May 3, and spread to the fence.

Suffolk police did not know if the three arsons were connected.

Anyone who may have witnessed the attacks or who has any information is asked to call police on 101.

COURT

Couple ordered to take down 'caravan' extension

@TaraCoxCN

A COUPLE from Great Abington who claimed a single storey pitched roof extension was a caravan have been told by magistrates they must take it down.

Jonathan and Feliciano Tilley, of North Road, pleaded guilty at Cambridge Magistrates' Court late last month to failing to comply with an enforcement notice served by South Cambridgeshire District Council, after building the single storey building and linking it to their home without planning permission.

Mr Tilley said in court that the extension was not in accordance with the Caravan Act and was deemed a building, although he had tried to build a caravan.

The couple had removed the front of the site but there was still an issue outstanding to be resolved before he removed the materials.

In court, Mr and Mrs Tilley were each fined £1,500, ordered to pay a victim surcharge of £100 each and legal costs of £500 each.

The total bill for the couple was £4,200.

Council lawyers told the couple in court a further prosecution could result if they fail to fully comply with the enforcement notice to remove the building from the site within 28 days.

Council bosses have said that the case is a good example of the cost to residents or businesses, both in time and money, of pressing ahead with plans without first talking to planners about what is proposed.

Cllr Robert Turner, South Cambridgeshire District Council's cabinet member for planning, said: "We always try to work with anyone looking to develop their home or business and even offer some free advice to get them on the right track.

"The last thing we want is for people to plough on with plans and end up paying the consequences further down the line.

"In Mr and Mrs Tilley's case, we had little choice but to take it to court as the owner had put up a major extension without planning permission, and refused to put it right when we served them with an enforcement notice.

"The approach Mr and Mrs Tilley took has cost them thousands of pounds and a huge amount of heartache, which could have been avoided."

South Cambridgeshire District Council is urging people to consider using their pre-application service which can make sure that all planning requirements are considered at the earliest stage.

The cost of pre-application advice starts from as little as £175 – which could save thousands in the long run.

Pre-application advice can be found by visiting www.scambs.gov.uk/content/pre-application-advice

EDUCATION

School works to highlight mental health

COUPALS Primary Academy in Haverhill is pledging to do more to raise awareness of anxiety and mental health issues.

The school has been holding workshops with parents to make them aware of the issues.

The session, run in conjunction with the school's nursing team and Wellbeing Suffolk, is the first of a series of initiatives from the school to raise awareness of mental health.

Head teacher David Maguire said he was pleased with the response from parents and the next step would be educate and support staff on how to help.

Mr Maguire said: "The workshop gave us an opportunity to talk to parents about why children might get anxious as well as discussing any general warning signs with them."

Mr Maguire said the school wanted to be "pro-active". He said: "We also want to teach our children more about anxiety because they can then support each other. If primary school children understand more about anxiety and mental health, it will help them more as they get older."

"While we only deal with a few cases of anxiety at Coups, we are aware that young people are under more and more pressure."

"There was a taboo around mental health issues. But we hope this kind of session and other things planned will help us break that for good."

Hospice to launch new group

AN emotional support group for women affected by terminal or life-limiting illness is being launched in Haverhill next week.

The sessions will be open to women receiving care from the St Nicholas Hospice as well as families, carers and anyone bereaved by illness.

The first meeting of the women's group on Monday will be held at the Burton Centre in Haverhill.

Modelled on the centre's successful men's group, the session will be a sounding board for women to talk about their experiences and find the support they need either through talking to each other or through other hospice services.

St Nicholas Hospice Care looks after people with long-term or life-threatening illnesses including: cancer, multiple sclerosis, motor neurone disease and the advanced stages of heart and lung disease.

The new sessions will run from 2pm to 3.30pm at the Camps Road facility every two weeks following the first meeting and there is no charge or need to book.

Village plea for help over skate ramp replacement

RACHAEL MCMENEMY

@rach_mc94CN

VILLAGE youngsters are being asked for suggestions on what should replace a skate ramp after it is demolished on Monday.

The ramp in Meadow Recreation Ground, Linton, is one of the main hangouts for young people but is now deemed to be unsafe.

Linton Parish Council is keen to hear what young people want to see replace the ramp, with a full skate park one possibility.

Parish clerk Kathryn Wiseman said the council had hoped repairs to the ramp would hold out until a replacement could be agreed but its deterioration had been so rapid, it needed to be demolished ahead of schedule.

She said: "Apart from youth clubs, we don't have many places for young people. It is a popular hangout, but we would say 'don't panic' and 'have you got any ideas and designs?'."

She said the council had hoped to keep the skate ramp for the summer but the risk was now too great, adding: "We didn't want a

COUNCIL

Children's home
plans 'not clear'RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

CONTROVERSIAL plans for a residential home for children were rejected on Tuesday by Haverhill Town Council.

The plans are to change a house in Spartan Close in Haverhill into a care home for children, who cannot be housed with other children. The plans had previously been before the town council planning committee in February and were objected to on a number of grounds, including inadequate parking and the sheer volume of residents who were opposed to it.

At the time residents expressed shock that the plans were even being discussed given that the care providers, Shalamar Children Limited, had another care home in Essex rated as inadequate by Ofsted in July, 2016.

Prior to Tuesday, Shalamar provided a letter in which they attempted to address the concerns raised by both the town council and residents.

However, at Tuesday's planning meeting, councillors felt there was now a lack of clarity regarding how many children would be using the care home.

Pat Hanlon, committee chairman, said: "We are still objecting, because of the number of people objecting around that area. The plan also has gone up to four children, before it was two children, plus a sibling. We are thinking that means more than four cars than they said, so we are still objecting on those grounds."

However, Cllr Hanlon emphasised that the objections were not because the town council does not approve of care homes for children with special needs.

He said: "We are not against special needs adults or children using these kinds of houses, we're not against that. Just in this area because of the number of objections."

Since the application first went before the town council, a further 31 comments by neighbours to the property have been sent to St Edmundsbury Borough Council in opposition to the plan.

The town council reiterated its objections and asked for further clarification about the number of children that would be using the home.

A final decision will be made by St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

MUSICAL: Book to see Centre Stage's production of Oliver! at the arts centre from Tuesday, May 23, to Saturday, May 27. Pictured are some of the cast in rehearsals

TWO classic films were the inspiration for the special tribute show that is Committed to the Blues Brothers.

The Commitments, (Mustang Sally and Take Me to the River) has a new best friend in The Blues Brothers (Everybody Needs Somebody) and together they form a BOGOF that you actually want!

This live tribute show, featuring a 12-piece showband, is suitable for all ages and promises to be an evening of foot-tapping, sing-a-long entertainment. Shake your tail-feather on Saturday at 8pm.

■ The audience for Brooks Williams's last concert at the arts centre are still saying how great he was and he is now back, this time with Sally Barker, on Sunday at 7.30pm.

Sally's career has spanned 30 years and has seen her fronting all female super-group The Poozies and collaborating with such musicians as Bob Dylan and Robert Plant. Williams's music has been described as 'Americana at its finest' – together they should blow you away!

■ Imelda Staunton plays the lead in this new production of Edward Albee's Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? on Thursday, May 18.

In a tale of toxic game playing (and other assorted marital issues) that could keep Relate going for years, Imelda plays the gruesome Martha to Conleth Hill's awful George. This has been described as a 'flawless production' by The Telegraph and the added bonus of watching it at the arts centre, as a live broadcast, is that you will actually be able to eat and drink during the performance – unlike at The Harold Pinter Theatre.

■ Centre Stage's production of everyone's favourite Dickensian musical about orphans who come good, Oliver! can be seen at the arts centre from Tuesday, May 23, to Saturday, May 27

Re-live the story of the good boy who gets mixed up in the bad-boy world of Bill Sykes and his slightly less bad cohorts, Dodger and Fagin.

■ On the silver screen is the true-story of unsung Second World War hero Louisa Gould, a shopkeeper on Nazi-occupied Jersey who takes in an escaped Russian POW and claims him as her own son. See Another Mother's Son on Monday, May 15, and Wednesday, May 17, at 1.30pm and 7.30pm respectively.

■ The Lost City of Z is also based on a true story but one set slightly further afield. Explorer Colonel Percy Fawcett takes what, in retrospect, could be described as an ill-advised journey in the Amazon Jungle to search for a lost civilisation. He does find the civilisation but it takes him a looong time to get home to his wife and children and he doesn't quite get the fame and fortune he's after. Watch Percy's adventures on Monday, May 15, at 7.30pm.

■ Emma Watson is Beauty and Dan Stevens is Beast in the live-action Disney remake of the classic fairy-tale. Get ready to be wowed and to learn the power of not reading books by their cover on Friday, May 19, at 6pm.

■ Coming soon to the arts centre comedian Mark Thomas (June 8, election day), psychic Marcus Day (Friday, June 9) and Blake singing Songs of Stage and Screen on Saturday, June 11

Committed to the Blues Brothers Sunday, May 14, 7.30pm Brooks Williams and Sally Barker Monday, May 15, 1.30pm

Wednesday, May 17, 7.30pm Another Mother's Son (12A) Monday, May 15, 7.30pm The Lost City of Z (15) Tuesday, May 16, 2pm Silverliners

Line Dancing Thursday, May 18, 7pm Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? Friday, May 19, 6pm Beauty and the Beast (PG)

Tuesday, May 23, to Saturday, May 27, 7.30pm and 2.30pm on Saturday Oliver!

Nothing normal about this

MANY so-called supercars now come with normal, comfort and sport modes. The new McLaren 720S doesn't have a 'normal' driving mode, the reason being, 'there is nothing normal about this car'.

As a successor to its Super Series models, the supercar family at the heart of the brand, McLaren bosses insisted the new 720S had to be 'revolutionary'.

Not an easy thing to achieve when you consider how good the earlier models were.

It's to the enormous credit of McLaren's designers and engineers that they have succeeded.

Normal, has gone out of the window, instead we have something simply staggering.

Its beating heart is a 4.0-litre twin-turbo V8, which generates a phenomenal 720PS – 710bhp – and an enormous 770Nm of torque. For the fact-checkers, that's an increase of 70PS and 92Nm on the old 3.8-litre.

For us mere mortals, the performance is unearthly – 0-62mph takes a visceral 2.9 seconds and the standing quarter of a mile is dispatched in just 10.3 seconds.

Top speed is 212mph yet CO2 emissions are down from 275g/km to 249g/km and the 720S officially returns 26.4mpg.

Every road car built by the Surrey-based manufacturer since 1993 has had a carbon fibre chassis and the 720S is no exception.

SIMPLY STAGGERING:
The McLaren 720S

However, it's based around a new lighter yet exceptionally strong carbon fibre tub which means the new model weighs in at a mere 1,283kg.

Incredibly, the aerodynamic efficiency of the 720S – the ratio between downforce and drag – is more than double that of the 650S Super Series.

Then there's a new generation of McLaren's remarkable Proactive Chassis Control, which features hydraulically-interlinked dampers at each corner.

The system constantly studies cornering, acceleration, braking, aerodynamic forces and the changing road surface and, in milliseconds, adjusts the firmness of the dampers to ensure all four P Zeros remain more consistently in touch with the road surface.

The result is a car with the highest-ever levels of ride comfort and cornering performance in a Super Series McLaren.

Now, you don't buy supercar and expect a waffy magic carpet-like ride and the PCCII doesn't supernaturally expunge all the lumps and bumps but, on very much less than perfect Roman and rural Italian roads, the 720S performed extremely well in Comfort mode.

It's on the track, however, that the McLaren comes alive. The seven-speed gearbox is sharp and seamless when shifting and all that aerodynamic and mechanical expertise combines to provide incredible amounts of power and almost physics-defying grip.

Superbly balanced, it gives you the confidence to push harder through the fastest corners without having to wrestle for control. It's a thrill you never want to stop. It is uniquely addictive.

For the more ambitious, there's also Variable Drift Control which allows you to dial up or down the degree of stability control in Sport and Track modes.

Priced from £208,600, the 720S comes in Performance and Luxury trims on top of the standard model.

The statistics are the same for all three, only the interior detailing is different – much more quality Bridge of Weir leather for Luxury, sportier touches for Performance. Optional kit is available in packs or individually for a more personal touch.

The interior is certainly much more luxurious than in previous models – plenty of leather and Alcantara available, all precisely fitted alongside wonderfully tactile machined aluminium switches and buttons.

Matched with glazed rear-pillars, the elegant sweep of its 'teardrop' glasshouse gives the driver virtually all-round vision, a feat unrivalled in the supercar class. It allows light to flood into the cabin making it an airy, pleasant space to be in.

Mini adds to the spirit of adventure

MINI has teamed up with Italian camper van specialists AUTOHOME to bring a spirit of adventure to the latest Countryman and other MINI models.

The leisure vehicle company has created a special edition AirTop roof tent which can be attached to the car's roof rails.

Capable of accommodating two adults, the roof tent is housed in its own aerodynamic box and measures 2.1 x 1.3 metres when erected.

The tent is fitted with a high-density mattress with cotton cover, two doors and two windows with zips, close-meshed mosquito nets at all openings and a battery-operated LED interior light as well as luggage nets and pockets to stow personal items.

A solid aluminium ladder is also provided to climb up on to the top floor of the Countryman.

The AirTop tent can be ordered from the AUTOHOME website where it is priced at 2,836.93 euros or £2,395.65.

Dacia extends the Logan's run

DACIA has announced UK pricing and specification for its new upmarket Logan MCV Stepway which was unveiled at the Geneva Motor Show in March.

The latest version of the budget-priced estate follows in the footsteps of the new Sandero Stepway crossover.

The Logan MCV Stepway is the fifth member of the Dacia UK range and is priced from £11,495 with first customer deliveries expected in June.

Dacia says the new Stepway – based on the recently revised new Logan MCV – has a muscular style with flared wheel arches, roof rails and a ground clearance of 174mm.

It maintains the same boot space of 573 litres.

The new Logan MCV Stepway is available with a choice of two engines, the TCe 90 petrol – with CO<sub>2</sub> of 115g/km and fuel economy of 55.4mpg and the dCi 90 diesel – with a CO<sub>2</sub> figure of 100g/km and fuel economy of up to 72.4mpg. Both come with a five-speed manual transmission.

Avon launches new motorcycle tyre

AVON Tyres has launched the latest of its acclaimed sport-touring tyres, the all-new Avon Spirit ST.

The Spirit ST is the successor to Avon's Storm 3D range and has been designed to provide excellent levels of wet grip, together with ultra-high performance handling, on a wide range of popular sport-touring bikes. Featuring a radical new tread pattern, the Spirit ST uses the latest high-silica synthetic rubber compounds for improved mileage.

The new tyre is designated as a hypersport touring tyre – offering supreme stability and grip in all riding conditions.

For the development of the Spirit ST, Avon's motorcycle research and development department began with an all-new carcass construction design that gives ultra-high-performance handling and stability.

It was wrapped in a highly-loaded silica compound, using the latest polymer technology, while adding a multi-compound tread on the rear. This gives more life in the centre of the tyre for extensive motorway miles. The edges of the tyre are made with a softer compound, for extreme grip in cornering.

Suzuki reveals prices for latest Swift model

SUPERMINI: Suzuki's all-new Swift goes on sale in the UK on June 1

SUZUKI has announced prices for its all-new Swift which goes on sale in the UK on June 1.

The new supermini, which has had sales globally of more than five million since its launch in 2005, is now available as a five-door model only, and the popular Swift SZ3 is priced from £10,999 up to £15,499 for the top range 1.2-litre SZ5 SHVS Allgrip with manual transmission and four-wheel-drive.

The 111bhp 1.0-litre three-cylinder Boosterjet turbo engine offers emissions of 104g/km and 61.4mpg for manual transmission model and the Boosterjet engine is also available with Suzuki's SHVS mild hybrid system with emissions of 97g/km which equates to 67.5mpg.

Standard equipment for all Swift models in the range sees the SZ3 model with 1.2-litre Dualjet engine and manual transmission includes six airbags, air conditioning, leather steering wheel, DAB radio with Bluetooth and four speakers, rear privacy glass, LED daytime running lights, 15-inch wheels, body coloured door mirrors and front electric windows.

An SZ-T model is available with the 1.0-litre Boosterjet engine and manual transmission and it adds a rear view camera, smartphone link display audio, 16-inch alloy wheels and front fog lamps.

Further up the grades the SZ5 adds auto air conditioning, 16-inch polished alloy wheels, satellite navigation, advanced forward detection system, keyless entry and start and rear electric windows. The SZ5 is available with a six speed automatic transmission as an option.

At 3,840mm long, the new Swift is 10mm shorter than the outgoing model, while its wheelbase is 20mm longer, creating more interior room including 25 per cent more luggage capacity at 265 litres. It is also 15mm lower and 40mm wider.

Suzuki says the model for the UK and Europe has a wider front and rear track than the Japanese domestic model.

New standard for city car

SMALL cars don't have to be spartan cars. It's a philosophy Korean brand Kia has adopted and embraced more than most in recent years.

And there's no better example of putting plans into practice than the new Kia Picanto model which hit UK streets on May 1.

The Picanto, now into its third generation, is the smallest model in a range that continues to expand – two all-new Kias are due in the next nine months including the Stinger sports fastback.

Recognising that city car buyers do actually want small cars, Kia set about ensuring the newcomer was no larger than the outgoing version yet delivered greater interior space and practicality.

But the team led by design guru Peter Schreyer didn't stop there. Content in the knowledge that buyers demand comfort, value, style and the latest technology, they set about creating a car that sets new standards.

The result is the new Picanto, following in the wheel-prints of a predecessor that has regularly finished in the top five selling city cars in Britain.

Prices are competitive, starting at £9,450, but any lingering traces of the bargain basement approach that once defined the brand are long gone.

Kia has high hopes for the newcomer, expecting four out of every five sales to be private rather than fleet and 60 per cent of those buyers to be women.

From launch there are modified versions of the 1.0 and 1.25-litre petrol engines from the previous Picanto but with lower fuel consumption and emissions.

In fact the lower powered of the pair has the potential to return 64.2 miles per gallon, with CO<sub>2</sub> emissions down at 101g/km.

All are now five-door models, badged 1, 2, 3, GT-Line and GT-Line S and both five-speed manual and four-speed auto transmissions are available.

Standard kit is comprehensive, even entry level including the likes of electric front windows, remote locking, auto headlights, tinted glass, tilt adjustable steering and hill start assist while the higher spec variants really rival the premium brands.

Go for the GT-Line and 16-inch alloys, black and red faux leather seats, sports front and rear bumpers plus LED daytime running lights enter the equation while top end GT-Line S adds stuff like a seven-inch central display with sat-nav, electric sunroof, wireless phone charger and a rear parking camera.

On the safety front the car is built on a new platform and contains double the amount of high-strength steel – forged at Kia's own foundry – making the Picanto more robust and also lighter.

There's also, either as standard or an option, Autonomous Emergency Braking, plus Electronic Stability Control, Vehicle Stability Management and Torque Vectoring, which detects when a car is drifting off its intended course.

Otherwise the Picanto's tech matches its smart sportier looks with, at top spec at least, a touchscreen display with sat-nav and there's also compatibility with smartphones.

The UK press launch on spectacular rural roads through Tuscany along with some dual carriageways featured models with both the available engines.

The three-cylinder 1.0-litre unit may only produce 66bhp but it doesn't lack zest, is smooth and stable at the upper speed limit and is both agile and enjoyable to drive. The manual gearshift is light, as is the steering.

In '2' trim grade, which is likely to prove most popular, it is priced at £10,750 – and that's decent value for a car that looks as smart and has the running costs of the Picanto.

Compared to the 1.25-litre 83bhp variant, it is slightly swifter at 0-62 in 11.6 as opposed to 13.8 seconds, but marginally less frugal with 61.4 compared to 64.2mpg, with a £500 price differential.

Those wanting a more spirited driving experience shouldn't have to wait long though, as a 99bhp turbocharged 1.0-litre engine is due later this year.

In keeping with most city cars there's adequate rather than expansive interior and boot space, though a pair of tall passengers aren't challenged for legroom.

Sound-proofing is effective, helping the Picanto feel more premium, and there's the reassurance of Kia's seven year/100,000-mile transferable warranty.

Prices are from £9,450 to £13,950 or from £129 a month on contract hire.

Gary secures double points finish after 'rollercoaster ride'

LET US SPRAY: Gary Paffett celebrates on the podium (below) after finishing second after a sensational drive on Sunday

Paffett's slick in wet

GARY Paffett began his DTM campaign impressively at Hockenheim, securing points finishes in both of the weekend's races, including a sensational drive to second in Sunday's race.

As with all his rivals, Paffett went into the season opener unsure of how competitive his Mercedes-AMG C63 would be compared with BMW and Audi.

But a successful qualifying session for the first race earned second place on the grid, gaining himself two championship points under the new rules for 2017.

Paffett, 36, maintained his position at the start of the first race but struggled for pace compared to race leader and fellow Mercedes driver Lucas Auer, and he slipped to third behind Timo Glock.

A tense battle with Glock saw Paffett drop to fourth at the expense of Edoardo Mortara after an overtaking move did not quite work out.

And when Paffett made his pit-stop he lost a further place to Mike Rockenfeller. He was then powerless to stop two late-pitting Audis who had strong pace on fresher tyres, and Paffett had to settle for seventh.

Race two was in cooler conditions the following day, with the possibility of rain.

After qualifying seventh Paffett made a great start and was up to fourth by turn one.

But an incident on the first lap resulted in a safety car and the first 'IndyCar' style restart. However, as the cars headed into turn one, Paffett was pushed on to the grass and fell to the back of the field.

However, it started to rain and that gave Paffett the chance to show off his wet weather skills.

On slick tyres, he cut through the field, and while other drivers came in for stops, Paffett timed his run perfectly.

He made sure he got the full amount of grip the slicks offered and waited until there was enough rain to warrant wet tyres before coming in. He returned to the track in third on the tail of defending champion Marco Wittmann.

Paffett was the fastest on track and it was not long before he passed Wittmann for second place.

Leader Jamie Green was too far ahead in his Audi, but Paffett showed his pace and had closed the gap to only four seconds at the finish.

"Race two was a rollercoaster ride," said Paffett, DTM champion in 2005. "We made a perfect decision on the pit-stop and switched to wets at just the right moment. The car was then really fast."

"You must never give up and keep fighting to the end. All in all it was an incredible start to the season for the DTM. In both races all three manufacturers were on the podium and each time it was three different drivers."

Late charge helps Sims hit podium milestone

ALEXANDER Sims picked up his first podium place in the IMSA WeatherTech SportsCar Championship in the Advance Auto Parts SportsCar Showdown at Circuit of the Americas in Austin, Texas.

Sims finished second in the GTLM class in the BMW Team RLL M6 he shared with American Bill Auberlen for the 2hr 40min race.

The West Wratting driver took the first stint and there was plenty of drama at the first corner as an incident involving several GTLM class competitors ruled them out.

Sims slotted into second behind the sister BMW of John Edwards for the first 14 laps and the two BMWs consistently ran in the top three throughout the race.

However, an error in the pits meant Auberlen attempted to leave before the fuel hose had been removed, resulting in a pit-stop penalty with 90 minutes to go.

It dropped Auberlen to fourth but he climbed back into second before handing over to Sims.

Sims, who was making his first appearance at the COTA, ran behind the class-leading Corvette, which had made one fewer pitstop than the BMWs, for his entire stint.

He narrowed the gap from 25sec to 11 before a full-course caution with 10 minutes remaining led to a sprint finish. He was unable to catch the Corvette but held on for second with Edwards and Martin Tomczyk third.

"It was a great day for us at COTA," said Sims, 29.

"The start of the season had been challenging at times, so it was good to get a podium and show how fast the M6 is."

Next for Sims is the Nurburgring 24 Hours on May 27 and 28 where he will compete with Rowe Racing.

The WeatherTech SportsCar Championship resumes at the Sahlen's Six Hours of the Glen at Watkins Glen, New York, on June 2.
